Highlights:

- Originally from Switzerland, owner Evelyne Huegi has been in business for 35 years. Her specialties include anti-aging, facial reflexology, Japanese Cosmo face-lifting and acne treatments, all of which are done by hand.
- Service is by appointment only because Huegi works alone. She recommends reserving an appointment about two and a half weeks in advance and has no age restrictions for clients.

Claim to fame: Huegi describes her spa as "contemporary." The interior is organic with a cork floor and bamboo. The towels are eco-friendly and also of bamboo. The atmosphere of the store is especially popular with male clients, because it is simple and gender-neutral. Huegi's goal is to keep the whole body in mind, not just the outside because "beauty comes from the inside out." A specialty is a diamond and gold treatment. Real diamonds (in the form of diamond dust) help the gold reach deeper layers of the skin. The 24-karat gold is massaged into the skin and nourishes and strengthens the skin when minerals from the gold are absorbed, Huegi said.

Fan favorite: "It's such a beautiful and relaxing environment, and Evelyne is such a fun and competent person.

I always come away feeling much better than when I walked in." – Debra Levin, Newport Beach

Fun fact: Exclusively sold at Swiss Clinique, Eminence is an organic skin-care line. One of the products is an SPF 30 organic powder sunscreen. Natasha Hogan, a client at Swiss Clinique, said that "the sunblock is tinted and works almost like a bronzer. It provides protection and coverage and is perfect for people who lead active lifestyles. It has great minerals and vitamins."
